"Branding"/"extension specific directory" for the refset tool

With increased use of the refset tool I have a feeling that the numbers of refset (with the addition of local sets) will increase alot and make it difficult to navigate through all the refsets.

To make the tool easier to navigate with extensions and different language users in mind I can think of two options on the top of my head:

1. Brand the tool like MLDS. Only show swedish refsets as default, make the rest available on demand.
2. Add an extension specific directory.
