The desire for increased text definitions tied to concepts has raised the question as to whether URLs that point to definition resources or the definition itself should be allowed. Initial discussion with the Editorial AG members has lead to a variety of opinions. Further evaluation and discussion is desired.