I have made a change to a morphologic abnormality 804000009|External hypertosis (morphologic abnormality), I added a new parent of "Neoplasm, benign (morphologic abnormality)". While looking through the impacts of this change I came across "Enamel spur" which has been modeled with "Osteophyte (morphologic abnormality)" which is a subtype of "804000009|External hypertosis (morphologic abnormality)".

My question is, what is the correct morphology for "Enamel spur"? Osteophyte doesn't seem correct, but maybe it is.
